1. Raul Pelayo does some creative scratching on the turn tables. 2. Ashley Omphroy works on her pruebita in Sra. Rose's spanish class. 3. Our school's crest on the floor of the entrance to Kaufman Auditorium. 4. Monica Steiner stares intently into the camera as her friends continue their conversation during break. 5. Just hours before a big game, Katie McAvoy, Laura Zimmerman, Sarra Bradford, Heather Pipkin, Molly Treat, and Soni Katri are all pumped up and ready to show their Hornet Pride. (The back of their shirts read "PRIDE!")

ANATOMY

(of a Hornet)

Alameda High School is one of the most diverse schools in America, with a plethora of students from nearly every race, ethnicity, background, country, and religion. Of the students attending Alameda High, about 5% are Pacific-Islander, 6% are Multi-racial, 6% are Black, 9% are Hispanic, 34% are Asian, and 37% are White. This broad mix of people makes an ever-lasting impression on all of our lives, enabling us to break through the barriers of stereotypes and inspiring in us a deeper understanding of what it means to be a "Hornet."

1. Frshman Ashley Yount was a little late for PE, so she waits outside the new gymnasium for class to begin. 2. Ruth Snook, who moved to California from England only last year, crams for her Spanish test two minutes before the bell rings. 3. Art students take a moment to reflect on how small the world really is. 4. Chad French enjoys his Winter Break snowboarding at Northstar at Tahoe. 5. It's only the second song of the evening, and already most Lady Hornets have removed there binding, though beautiful, heels.

SUMMER

Waiting for the clock to strike 2:55 PM, students start packing, waiting impatiently to start their summer vaction. The bell rings. Students run out of their sixth period class, ready to start their months of summer fun. Some travel outside of the country, some swim in the blue waters of Hawaii, and there are always those who linger around the house and spend most of their time making up the sleep that they missed during the school year. No matter what, AHS students found their fun this past summer in all that they did.

Lisa Bryant, Jenny O'Neil, and Kara Jeffords relax at a cabin in Tahoe.

Alan and Lily Ng walk the long Great Wall of China.

Loving Erica Kendall meets her new friend in Guadala, Mexico on her youth mission trip.

Matthew Lee tries to push the Leaning Tower of Pisa back to its proper position.

Janae Richmond and Megan Espiritu stop at Laguna Beach to enjoy the breeze.

Ewana Cheng gets in touch with nature in China.

Rebecca Sinesio and Meghan Pipkin takes a dip at Lake Tahoe.

Sophomores Steffi and Jilli Zarifia get devored by a man-eating fish at a mini-golf course in Tahoe.

Kelsy Nelson, Cheyenne Kelsey, Mia Croft, Corrine Roberts, Jennifer Frankel, and Lauren Hodill spend a night of fun at the Hyatt Hotel.

DRESSING UP MUSIC

FASHIONS & PASSIONS

"What can I say, I like music!!!" Mr. Lamb

The various styles at Alameda High range from a preppy Abercrombie and Fitch look, to a spike and leather Punk rock look. Certain styles have been influenced by such musical acts as Slayer, Rancid, Mariah Carey and Eminem. Students listen to all types of music including: rock, rap, house music, punk rock, alternative, hip-hop and rave music. Some of these bands include : Linkin Park, Jay-Z, Blink-182, Nelly and Ludacris. When a student like an artist they copy their style. They get similar shoes, jewelry, clothes, tattoos and piercings. They emulate their idol's style and add in their own personal style to match it. Music is one of the most important parts of a student's life at Alameda High whether it helps them do homework or sleep at night. Our fashions are deeply influenced by our passions.

"I like 60's pop all the way to ghetto rap!" Mia Croft

"We like to listen to 94.9!" Julie Ann Dal Rusario & Margerie Hoang

Josh Foster is busting out a solo on his guitar. Photo by Paul Bothwell.

"I believe today's music doesn't offer a lot, it's simple poppy songs that people only see on TRL. I believe music should offer the listener more, it should come from the gut and the heart and be felt throughout the entire body."

"I listen to modern rock like Linkin Park and Tool." Officer Lance

What music do you listen to?

Pantera, Slayer and Rancid- Randy Avalos
Drums and Bass!- Brian Han
Jazz, Country and Jungle- Chris Norton
It's all about EMINEM!!!- Rebecca Sinesio
Rock and Country- Jenna Copeland

What do you picture when you hear the word diversity? Defined, diversity is a point in which things differ, but applied to our everyday life, it becomes much more than just a word. America is the most diverse nation in our world. California is the most diverse state in the nation. As American, Californians and as students at AHS, we are constantly surrounded by diversity, making our school interesting and giving us all a sense of each other's culture. This year, the Acorn is dedicated to dissecting our school, our student body, and exploring the notions of race, gender, class rank and teachers vs. students. We do this in an effort to heighten our awareness. In the words of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., we wish to know one another by the "content of our character" and not by " the color of our skin." Alameda High is filled with diversity and that's what makes our school so interesting. Through out these past few years, Alameda High School has increasingly became more diverse It's uplifting to see how different races come together despite the different generalizations that are made against them. Even though stereotypes and diversity are not usualy topics teens discuss daily, when it's brought to their attention many interesting comments are made.

There are many stereotypes not only about races but also about students, teachers and how they're different. In the charts below it shows how students and teachers are alike, when it comes to things thought about inside and outside of school.

Teachers
1) Outdoors/vacation/ weekends
2) School
3) Friends
4) Family
5) Grading papers

Students
1) Friends
2) Guy's & girl's
3) School
4) Sports
5) Future

How do you deal with stereotypes you hear coming from students?

"I ask them why they said it and do they understand what it means."

-Mr. Caziarc

"Tell the person that's inappropriate behavior and it can not be used in my class."

-Mr. Rodd

How do you feel about stereotypes made about your race?

"They're not true, Because I'm Mexican/American and I'm totally white washed."

-Senior Nina Quintero

"I feel that the stereotypes made about my race are completly false because I'm mixed."

It is truly a gift when a person is blessed with a talent. An achievement should be recognized when a person is enthusiastic enough to excel in a hobbie. Alameda High School is filled with people of various talents, who sing, skateboard, dance, horseback ride and practice other fascinating hobbies. When a person finds anything they are interested in and spends all of their time doing it, it then becomes a person's passion.

Brady Murphy, Sophomore, leaves people speechless after hearing his breath taking voice, which he discovered when he was six.

Annie Tran, Senior, has a beautiful voice, which could be her key to fame and fortune in the future.

Amanda Justus, Senior, could be the next Martha Graham of this generation.

COMMUNITY SERVICE

Kim Brocks, Freshman helps out elderly folks by working in their yards.

Community service has always been a requirement to graduate from Alameda High School but some students take it upon themselves to exceed the requirement of twenty hours in order to help out our community. Students volunteer at many places such as the Red Cross, Alameda Hospital, nursing homes, Boys and Girls Club and other places. Helping out our community may fulfill the desire for some who want to feel like they made a difference in someone's life. It gives students a sense of accomplishment and a feeling that they have done something good for someone else.

Carrie Arth, Freshman, gets her community service completed at a child's center.

Erin Niland Melina Miller, Erika Del Valle, Molly Treat, 12th, and others at Home Sweet Home Child Care Center.

Lisa Bryant, Rebecca Sinesio, and Lindsay Corica, 12th, shed a smile before heading to a canned food drive.

What's the average amount of hours completed in each grade?

Jill Connolly and Shawna Murphy, Juniors, complete their hours in the library.

Do you enjoy completing your community service hours?

"Yes because I enjoy helping people." Vanna Chan, 12th(above)"I love communtiy service because I work with kids and I love kids"Melina Miller, 12th(below).

School has always been and should always be a student's first priority yet we also have outside lives. Besides extra-curricular activities, sports and spending time with family and friends, some students find time for a job. There are many reasons why students would want to work for extra money, to occupy their time, or to save up for things like a car, college or future plans. Jobs also provide students with a sense of responsibility and many skills they will be able to use in their lifetimes.

Our Morning of Darkness..

September Eleventh, Two Thousand and One

People watched, horrified, as the passenger plane crashed into the side of the World Trade Center.

Our flag is the symbol of our unity.

Age does not matter when it comes to having pride for your country.

"The American people have reponded magnificently, with courage and compassion, strength and resolve."

President Bush

N.Y.'s courageous fireman sifting through concrete, metal and dust to find survivers.

September 11, 2001, tragedy struck our nation. The eyes of America were on New York, as terrorists attacked the Twin Towers, killing thousands of innocent lives. Even through this terrifying time, we showed our unity and our spirit to overcome this disaster. The Acorn wishes to offer these pages as a memorial to the lives that were lost and a tribute to the fireman, the rescuers, the families and our nation's indomitable will to survive. We thank our communities all around us because we worked as one, standing strong as a nation. May we all be blessed in our resolve to make this world a more peaceful place.

"I was shocked and disappointed that someone was capable of doing such a horrific act."

Andy Choi

"I did not believe it first, but when I saw the T.V. pictures, tears came to my eyes."

Miriam Dorsett

"It was a terrible tragedy. I wish the best for all and for America."

Skylar Tillorson

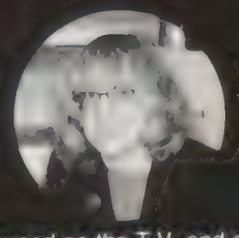
1. A.H.S. joins the nation in remembering the victims of the tragedy.
2. "God bless America" signed by Sophomore Dave Santos.
3. Hornets signing their heart felt feelings and comments.
4. "I love America" clearly written on the bottom of the poster in America's colors.
5. In solidarity, A.H.S. students contribute to a relief fund which will greatly help our country.
6. Mark Gajda wrote his comment to increase the peace.

"It's really sad and we're doing a great job as Americans of moving on. We're showing that their terrorists acts will not change our pride in our country."

Stephanie Sheppard

"Terrorism cannot be stopped by increasing security or sacrificing our civil liberties. These are choices we are making today and choices we will regret tomorrow."

Ben Hoffman



"I turned on the T.V. and saw the second plane crashing in. Before leaving for work, I saw the first tower come down. Unbelievable! I'm still in shock."

Come Together Right Now...

Spirit Week

Senior, Lani Wong, takes a journey back to her childhood as she smiles playfully while holding onto her cherished Scully doll.

Celebrity, Laura Pyedpon, from "That 70's Show", also known as Laura Zimmerman is caught outside in the courtyard of Alameda High.

Red pom poms, green leis, silver jackets and orange tees explode in the gym amongst shouts and screams of excitment. School spirit allows us to express our sense of pride, individuality and togetherness throughout an entire fun filled week full of activities that includes the whole student body. Whether it is by wearing safari hats, sport jerseys or pajamas to school, students are willing to go all out to express their homage to the Hornet.

Buffy the Vampire Slayer, Aly Yount, is rather charming, as she slays her opponent, Mimi Newton, the Bjork look alike.

Four of Alameda High's most adventurous students, Joey Silver, the Safari guy, and his fellow classmates, Corrine Roberts, Jon Villegas, and Lauren Hodill are ready to take on the challenge on Survivor's newest edition: Safari Africa.

Jason Hung and Peter Lim are two of the most spirited seniors amongst their class; they really put the two in 2002!

This Halloween I wanted to be something interesting, so I dressed up as an angel, and I've never been an angel before.

- Devin Donaldson,
Freshmen

I didn't know what to be this year, but I have this costume that I wear for work at a Renaisance Fair. So I decided to wear this for Halloween.

- Karen Baker
Senior

Halloween is the only day of the year when you can safely be something that you are not. The day when every little girl can be a princess for a day and strapping young males can become devilish and daring. A day full of sweets and crazy costumes, Halloween brings back childhood memories. Some of us have not yet gotten past that stage and so they humor us by wearing creative costumes to school complete with memorable make-up, magic wands, and monster masks. Filled with fun, Halloween is a holiday that some of us just never outgrow.

Three lovely hornets stop to pose for a Halloween picture.

Beware of this super hero, its the Sophomore Erin Russell, the Tomb Raider look alike, in her leather jacket and super cool black sunglasses.

Senior, Annie Tran, wanted to wear a pair of pretty angel wings this Halloween. She flies around the campus like the angel that she is.

Day of the Living Dead

Royalty On The Field

Once upon a time on the far off island of Alameda there lived a sleeping beauty named Alicia Morrow. Alicia was born to a hard-working, middle-class family in the village just outside of the island. She was a shy and quiet young lady and never asked for much. Alicia often dreamed of becoming a princess as she watched the sunset behind the castle gates.

One starlit evening, the king announced to his people from his balcony that he and the queen were abdicating their royal positions. The time had come for a new couple to tend to the kingdom. Invitations from the castle were sent to every door in search of a young, noble king and a kind-hearted queen.

Commoners from all across the land came in their most enchanting gowns and finely tailored suits in the hopes of being crowned the next king and queen of Alameda.

Alicia decided to accept the king and queen's gracious invitation and attend the crowning secretly hoping that she would be the chosen one. Meanwhile, Alicia prepared for the possibility of becoming a princess.

Alicia and her loyal friend, Marissa Brown left for the castle in their beautiful chariot.

Marissa was dubbed the queen of Alameda. Although Alicia was not crowned, she still fullfilled her dream of becoming a part of the magical kingdom. And they all lived happily ever after.

The End

For the entertainment of the new king and queen, a joust was held. This was no ordinary battle, for it took courage, skill, and strength. The opponents were the Richmond Oilers. They were prepared to fight our very own noble Alameda Hornets. Both teams took position to fight in an all-out battle to victory.

Hike was yelled and Martin Puckett takes charge of the ball.

Brian Brooks made a mad dash to the touchdown line.

Run! Tavis Vee, run!

Mark Gillman flashed a winning smile after the game.

Tom Gay was pushed, tackled, and beaten, but never gave up hope.

Jay Castro took a courageous fall for the team.

And Finally Victory! The Alameda Hornets have triumphed over the barbaric Richmond Oilers. With the final score of Hornets 42, Oilers 12, we are sure the Oilers felt the sting of a hornet and next time they will think twice about entering a hornet's hive.

6. Nina Quintero and her date prepare to rock out in their matching "penguin suits"

7. Casey Nunes and Daniel Arellano get this party started as the music blasts through the room.

8. Sorry ladies, Tom Bevilacqua seems quite taken with Molly Jacobs and her backless dress.

Your Opinion: Why Don't People Go To Dances?

"The music is weak and no one ever dances." - Cynthia Kwong

"Dances lack the cultural diversity that I seek in a woman." -Peter Lim

Your Opinion: What do you do on Friday nights?

"Go out... chill!" -Peter Chung

"I will either go out with my friends or sleep." -Alex Lim

As the bass line echoes throughout the decorated hall, the decked out Hornets, sway, dip and get downright funky to the beat. Glamorous, glitzy and gorgeous, school dances are never a disappointment. Students at Alameda High go all out in sparkles and sweat to show off their superfly dance grooves.

1. Erin Hill and her friend dance throughout the night without their heels on.

2. Gabbie Burt happily waits in line for her pictures to be taken.

3. Matt Demonte is happy that Maggie Mirault agreed to dance with him.

4. Lady Hornets get their groove on at the first dance.

5. Chris Vee embraces his mysterious date for the night.

6. Jon Villegas, Peter Lim and Michaela Yee show off their fly moves.

I'm Just a Bill... Mock Congress

Manno

"This was the best Mock Congress ever. It gets better every year, but next year's class is going to have a hard time living up to this year's standards."

1. Brian Hogan & Jennifer Fletcher of the Senate lobby their bill to ban all clothing in Alaska

2. Senate Whips Derek Arguets & Andy Lam take a well deserved breather

3. Ian Smith does his best impression of Nixon while fillabusting on the Senate floor

4. Jaime Garza of the House encourages votes to support prison education

5. Ryan Nierra reads from the Communist book of Marxism to support his argument

Silveen

"The event went very well in my student driven act and individual personalities affected the outcome of the day. The structure of Mock Congress is very sound, so our focus would have to be changed."

Cazian

"I thought it went really well. People participated and the [illegible] great. But there are minor changes that needs to be made next year. In general, it was a great experience."

Members of the House and Senate gather in Kahuku Auditorium on the morning of February 14th to lend their ears to wise words of President Shrub concerning the affairs of Enron and the state on terrorism. With intellectual comments on "strategery" and the "Tally Ban," we were all guaranteed on our safety as a country.

Bills were heatedly debated in the House of Representatives while filibustering went on in the Senate. Gavels were pounded and demands for recounts were shouted. Whispers of impeachment floated in the air. From this experience, Seniors learned that government is not a simple process and that many variables factor into making decisions. All in all, the day was an adventure that opened our eyes to issues that directly affected us. Congress adjourned.

Below: Nolan Tsuchiya & Miguel Salcedo applaud

Below: Senator Sara Bradford leaves hastily and Hiro rolls on each left to complete the Mock Congress roster.

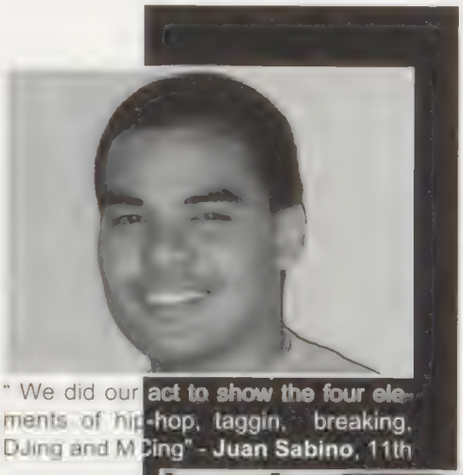
"I'm proud to say that the Congressmen of the Mock Congress had a sense of integrande. Though some fools were misled by California hippies, I believe we've stood behind the sanctimonification of the family and are patriarchs, I mean, patriots. God bless America and bombs away!"
—President Shrub

Take The Stage



" We did our act to show the four elements of hip-hop, taggin, breaking, DJing and MCing" - Juan Sabino, 11th

"We were asked to do our act last minute and we made it up during 5th period yesterday! " -Janae Richmond

1. Shareen Scott, 10th, practices her dance moves for B.S.U.
2. Sonya Yi and Christine Tsu, 11th practice vocal warm-ups .
3. Justin Bonafacio, 10th, and his band mates The Guilty Bystanders play "tampered".

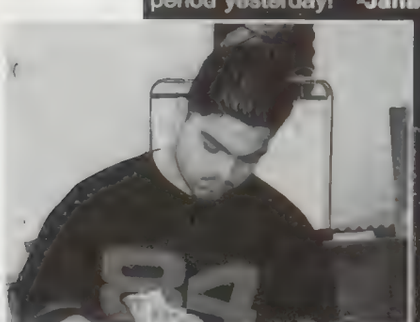
After weeks of preparation the 40 plus talent roster hit the stage, such acts as Often Last and The Guilty Bystanders participated. Hands clapped after every dancer, singer and band showcased their talents. New this year was the Night Talent show, featuring 13 acts and two hours of the best entertainment Alameda High School has ever seen. With a heavy influence of punk rock and hip hop in this years show, everyone should be amused. The 2002 Talent show has proved that it is the best show we have seen in years.



"I chose to sing because there really no male vocalists so I'm out RnB thuggin it" -Emmanuel Jimenez, 12th

Corey Timko, 10th, keeps the beat going.

"I like playing music because it is fun, you get a chance to voice your opinion, you meet people, and I dont really know what else to say." -Chris Placencia, 10th

Formaly Bridgeway, audition for there desired spot in the talent show.

1) Stefan Davis, 10th, checks the volume on his bass amp before the show. 2) Raul Pelayo, 12th, flosses his DJ skills on the turntables.

3) Chris Placencia, Peter Kinderchuck and Tim Chan, sophomores, work on perfecting their cover song by "The Ramones". 4) Ever wonder what it is like from a performer's point of view? 5) Joe Benton, 10th, anticipates his performance back stage. 6) Twenty-Two frets of fun!

Reflections...

Graduating Class of 2002

At last! After four years together of working hard and hardly working, we seniors will all be going our separate ways. Throughout this impressive journey, we have strengthened old friendships and formed new ones. From them, we have all learned and taught each other about tolerance and the desire for peace and the acceptance we are all capable of giving from within. We have uncovered our goals, our shortcomings, our strengths and most of all, the drive to be ourselves. In high school, we have developed individuality and who we hope to be in the quickly approaching future.

In order to appreciate how far we have ultimately traveled, we must reflect on the past years and recall the support we have received from family and teachers; the selfless people who have given us so much knowledge and helped shape us to become as we are today. Remember the force of those that have guided us and have shed some light on our path to self-discovery. Cherish the memories of those we will never forget. Most of all, congratulate ourselves, for ultimately, it has been our own inner ambition that has brought us this far, and it will be ourselves that will push us much farther from this point on. Know where you are going to*.*

Thank each other for making this the best experience it could have possibly been. Realize that we all share the same beginning and remember this when you have reached the end. We have worked our way to the top and after all the years of labor we have endured, realize this: we deserve it. Realize that we have reached the best place yet, and life only gets better. After all, what would Alameda High School be without...

Soon the tassels will be shifted from the left to the right and the graduating class of 2002 will leave Alameda High and their legacy behind. From Senior Banquet to the Senior Prom, much of the upper class activities have left seniors scraping for cash. However, being a Senior means much more than Grad Night and trips to Cancun, Mexico. It's the memories, the regrets, the opportunities, the risks, the laughters, and the tears.

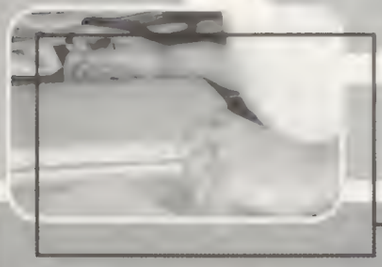
This is our time capsule. Here we mark the beginning of our lives and our journey to discover our full potential and talents. No longer will we be bothered by trivial tribulations; instead we stand against the real world and its test of survival. We've made it this far, let's meet again at the end.

If I were valedictorian...

David McGraw-Cook

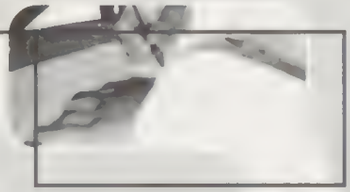
"Hi class of 2002. I wish you luck in your life after high school and hope you get everything that is coming to you. Good luck and good bye."

"If I was valedictorian, I would say that I am the happiest man alive... and thank every one in this school who supported me."



Wan Choi

Kurt Lu



"It was nice being a student here, I will forever remember sleeping in class. Well, good luck to all... Kurt Lu? Valedictorian? What has the world come to?"

"I am the smartest person in here and THAT'S why I'm up here. I'm going to be rich because I studied instead of partying. So now when I walk out of here I'm going to work and party with real successful people... NOT LOSERS. Thanx to me.

And you!"

Rosa Castillo

"This moment..."

"This moment
this now
transcends all notions of life
It's not about Age or classification
or sexual preference
It's about beating back in the ephemeral river of time
re-living tomorrow
and living now today
Out with the gusty winds
extinguishing our candles!
Out with yesterday's woes!
Today I live
because now lasts forever."

These Are the Times

A night of dancing, singing, feasting and friends, Senior Banquet is an event to always remember.

Jamie Chan and Samantha Abraham get their groove on in the Senior congo line.

Mrs. Sherratt grins while accepting the award for "Best Smile."

Kelly Krasky and Adam Alway embrace each other while they waltz the night away.

Emmanuel Jimenez carefully places his precious crown atop his head.

Martin Pucket sweetly serenades the Senior class.

Mrs. Sherratt and David Nayfield practice their tango routine while Mr. McPhetridge waits to cut in.

Teresa Dang, looking lovely for the runway.

Janae Richmond and Showhat Yohannes show how low they can go.

Peter Lim stares in shock as his name is announced.

What will you remember about Senior Banquet?

"I enjoyed the slide show, seeing all my friends and how much we've grown up." -Gabrielle Laud

" I liked how kind the kids were and how well the teachers got along with the students."

"I enjoyed spending time with my friends and the great view of the bay."

"I thought Senior Banquet was well planned and the best banquet we've ever had."

Junior Mugs

With one more year remaining, the Juniors of Alameda High have accomplished many feats in their high school careers. The trials and tribulations they have endured will help prepare them for the years to come. The Juniors have come face to face with new challenges and obstacles, giving them the opportunity to explore their intellectual and social capabilities. With the upperclassmen departing shortly, Juniors open their eyes to a world of new possibilities, anxiously awaiting the arrival of their final year of high school.

The Sophomore Slumps

Sophomore Mugs

Throughout an intense year of mixed emotions and hard work, the Sophomore class of two thousand and four still holds strong. Despite the high expectations and large amounts of pressure from our surroundings, we remain intact in setting and achieving our goals. Breaking between the barriers and balancing both social and academic life, we learned the importance of responsibility, decision-making, and the results of certain actions. As the time rapidly approaches for the Sophomore to climb a rung higher on the class ladder, they will take with them everything learned during the first two years at Alameda High. Throughout our transition from Sophomores to Juniors, we will tackle and learned the curved roads and unseen milestones of our young adult lives. One thing will always remain safely in our hearts: the memories shared, both of joy and sorrow. The knowledge and confidence we gained during the past two years will bring us to great heights, in both education and the real world.

Freshmen Mugs

Buzzing through the hectic hallways, the newest arrivals to the hive greet the old lions, beavers, cougars, and new faces with warm smiles. Combined to form the new hornet class of '05, they brought diversity, a needed football team, and confident people to the hornet community. At the end of the year, they proved themselves to be triumphant. With three more years remaining until they graduate as class of '05, the new hornets work hard to create a strong and solid ground for the upcoming years.

Senior Life Skills

Laughing and smiling, the senior life students here at Alameda High are constantly expressing their joy and happiness. Being able to listen to music, dance freely and cook delectable, healthy dishes help create a comfortable atmosphere where they can explore and express their inner strengths and talents. Not only is the classroom environment incredibly enjoyable, but it is also a place where they can learn, develop, and practice every day skills. Through constant encouragement and perserverance, these astoundingly motivated groups of students gradually develop the strengths and abilities to be independent, communicative, and social. Just like a family, they join together to create a community of strength, unity, and support.

1. Evan Campbell, De' Mariae Henderson, Siobhan Morell, and Dania Leyva take a detour to Costco on a weekly basis to load up their carts with snacks and drinks in order to keep Alameda Hornet's needs fulfilled.
2. After making a wish, Paul Heung gently blows out the brightly lit candles on his birthday cake.
3. The traditional spooky and haunting Halloween party takes a sudden turn as Farial Hasieb, Kim Mendes, and Evan Campbell approach one another in a warm and caring manner.

1. Deann Robinson's senior life class unite as one to take a photograph of their precious times spent together.
2. Staring innocently into our eyes, the Senior life students' class pet, Lulu, dresses up in her best tutu for Halloween.
3. Julie Williams, senior life skills teacher, stands by the chalkboard to discuss the day's agenda.
4. Antone Souza, vision specialist, takes Lydia Cuevas for a spin on the dance floor.
5. Stephen Burnett, Alameda HIgh's newest campus supervisor, takes the time out of his hectic schedule to meet and greet post grad student, Dania Leyva.

Our Guiding Stars

staff and faculty mugs

The committed and encouraging Alameda High faculty and staff make our school comfortable and welcoming. As baby hornets, we landed at this school somewhat lost and confused, but they have always assisted and guided us through our times of suffering and strife. As we mature from baby bees to full-grown hornets, we will sparkle and shimmer with immeasurable strength and confidene. As the time arrives for us to spread our wings and expand our knowledge, their everlasting compassion and support will linger on in our minds, and the positive impact we gained from their guidance will stay with each one of us, now, forever, and always.

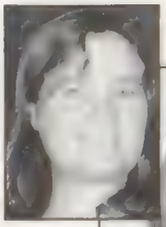
The Way We Were

Staff Now and Then

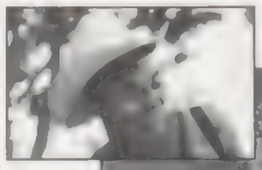
"Running with my friend away from these two kids that were beaming us in the back with rocks and crab apples. Then we found the most viscious looking pipes and chased them away, claiming victory."

"I attended a private, all girls boarding school. Although I had missed my family dearly, my playmates and classmates became a special part of my life that I will always treasure."



"I remember playing in the hills of Livermore with my friends and family, where we swam in the clean, clear lakes and streams during our camping trips, and hiked to the top of hills and put on presentations for family night."

"I remember walking in the clear, crisp autumn nights with piles and piles of leaves everywhere. During the summer days, I would eat popsicles while sitting by the lake waiting patiently to fish."



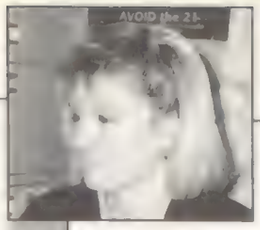
"My fondest memories as a child were of eating white coconut cake on Sundays with my grandmother, and also card board sliding on dry grass in the Marin Hills."

"I remember playing with my brother in our gigantic tree house. We strung up garden hoses to act as hanging vines and would go swinging from tree to tree far into the night."

Alegria Barclay

"In elementary school, I loved open house. I used to go with my mother. As she visited my classroom, I used to play 'pick up sticks' and 'jacks' with my friends in the gym. While in high school, my girl friends and I used to put our hair in rollers and then go shopping all day Saturday- with a scarf over the rollers!"

"Becoming at seven years old, the 'big guy' who could keep sharp the knives with which we castrated the little bullcalves during 'branding and cutting' days on my family's ranch in Idaho. The treatment given to the calves was, later, during my adolescence, held to me as a very probable consequence of my misbehaviors."



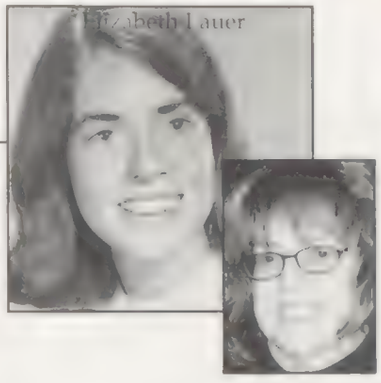
"When I was little, my dad was in the Navy, where he was gone and away at sea for six to nine month periods. My family would create and design paper chains that we hung in our home, and we would remove one each day for the countdown of his return. When we had only one paper chain remaining, we would wait patiently by the door to warmly greet his return."

Tonya Wynn

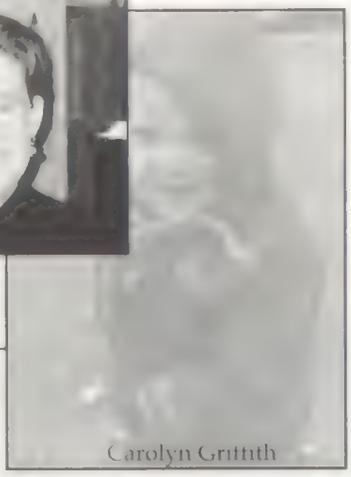
Carmel Zimmerman

"My most cherished childhood memory is making cinnamon toast with my grandmother in her kitchen. I would give so much to returnto that kitchen to make one slice of toast with her again."

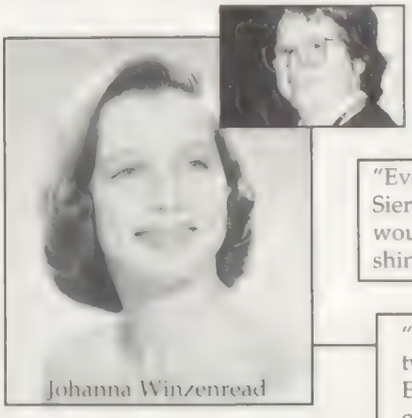
"My favorite memory was when I stayed in my aunt's cabin in North Minnesota. In the winter, we would roast marshmallows in the open fire and ice skate in the pond, and in the summer, we would take long boat rides in the lake."



Elizabeth Lauer



Carolyn Griffith



Johanna Winzenread

"Every year, we would go to Huntington Lake in the Sierra Mountains and meet up with family friends. We would cook over the open fire, sleep under the bright shining stars and explore nature."

"My memory of school is riding a school bus two miles to my Georgia elementary school. Every morning, my bus driver would quiz us on our spelling words, and once he stopped the bus and made some unruly eight graders walk home. "

Margie Sherratt

"One of my favorite high school memories was when I learned that I was elected Vice President of the Student Body for Alameda High School."

"Since I grew up near both sets of my grandparents, I spent quite a lot of time with them. On Christmas Eves', I would spend it at one grandparent's house with all my cousins, while during the summer, I would stay in my other grandparents' house and take care of their garden."

Kelly Gregor

Alan Nakamura

"One of my favorite childhood memories was of going to hear my father play music. Occasionally, I would get to go hear him play professionally, which gave me a feeling of pride and joy."

David Coulter

"As a child, I had always loved Christmas. My sister and I would stay up all night and think about our presents until the early morning where we raced to to our parents' bedroom and jumped into their bed, screaming loudly until they took us to open our presents."

Cream Of The Crop

Staff... most likely to...

"I hope my grandchildren will learn from my mistakes and not get kicked out of Mr. Boomer's class for talking too much."
- Mia Croft

"Well, luckily my graduation wasn't at 7 a.m zero period, plus I had a twin sister who always made sure I got to where I needed to go."
- Joseph Simiele

"I definitely agree that Mr. McPhetridge would have been a motivational speaker because he is very optimistic. He is always reciting quotes over the loud speaker to motivate students."
- Danielle Grimm

"I am absolutely honored to be voted teacher most likely to be in a beauty pageant, and if there were one thing I could wish for, it is world peace."
- Kelly Gregor

"As much as I would have liked to be voted as teacher most likely to be reborn as a cockroach, I am exhilarated to find that the world thinks of me as a teen rebel."
- Alegria Barclay

"I've seen pictures of Ms. Barclay during her mullet years, business in the front, party in the back."
- Michaela Yee

"Coach Rodd's award is perfect for him. He is one of the most busiest people that I know. Between coaching, teaching, workng out to stay fit, Mr. Rodd still finds time to spend with his lovely wife. So, Mr. Rodd depends on things open 24 hours!"
- Amanda Justus

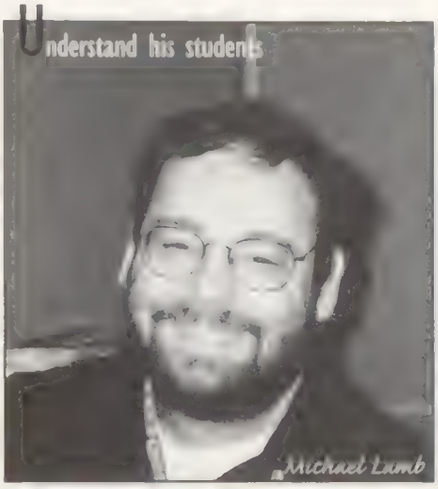
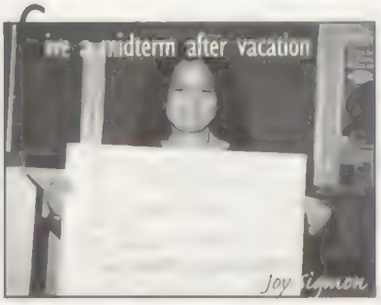
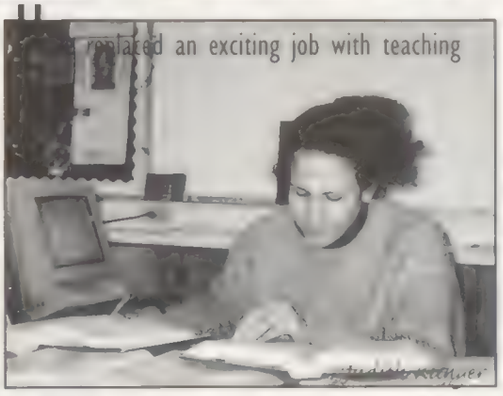
"I think that the award Mr. Lamb received definitely suits him because having him as an Algebra 2 teacher, I find him to be very understanding, trustworthy, and friendly."
- Jessica Schappell

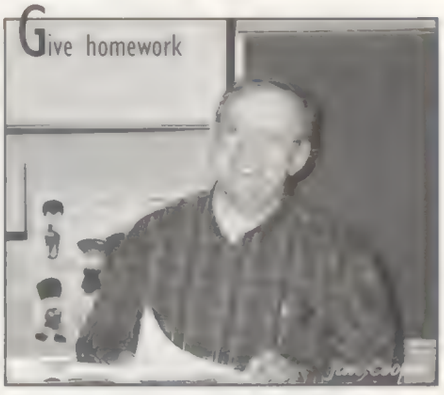
"Mr. Lamb's class is the last class you should ever stress over."
- Michael Lamb

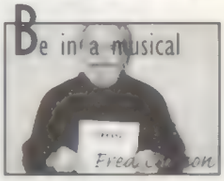


"Well, I guess my lifetime subscription of Seventeen magazine has paid off!"
- Anne Turpin









"Tell Mr. Manno not to quit his day job."
- Tuyen Phi

"I'm shocked! I am always serious with my students."
- Tony Manno

"I feel honored to be voted teacher most likely to travel the world because travel is one of my favorite things in life. I have had so much fun traveling abroad- my eyes have been opened to the magic of other countries and the wisdom from culture so different from ours."
- Martin Gross

"I think that it is very noble of Ms. Klinger to have given up a six figure income to watch over little kids."
- Jamie Chan

Leaders of the Pack

Principal and Vice Principals

"We are very fortunate for our diverse school and community where our students and staff always set high standards."

Margie Sheratt, Principal

"I am so delighted to be in this warm and supportive community,where it's always challenging, in a good way."

Gerald Rawlins, Vice-Principal

"I am chuffed to be surrounded by so many adults and students comitted to making the world a better place, starting in Alameda."

Sean McPhetridge, Vice-Principal

They are the familiar faces around campus that enforce those important rules we must abide by, but there is another side to them. Ms. Sherrat, Mr. McPhetridge and and Mr. Rawlins are here for us, the students, to make sure our days here at Alameda High School are as wonderful and productive as possible. Who can forget the encouraging morning statements by Mr. McPhetridge as you hurry down the hallway not to be late for first period? Or the friendly grin of Mr. Rawlins at the Friday night football games to passing students. And, of course the way Ms. Sherrat can inspire students and teachers in the hallways before class. These are the outstanding individuals who make it their job to make our lives better.

Counselors

Whether it's a quick visit for an update on grades, or some sound advices on college choices the counselors are always here to serve our needs. With their expertise on academics and their guidance on our courses, they help us to chart our own paths for a successful future.

"The counselors program is to help teachers,students and parents function efficiently.0"

John Maiers,
Head Counsuler

Campus Supervisors

While walking down the halls you can see these helpful supervisors doing their job making sure every single student is in their class and learning. Durring break when the first bell rings, they are the ones encouraging the studdents to hurry on to class. If you need a shoulder to lean on they are more than compasstionate, unless you are late for class.

"I am so proud to be working at Alameda High School, and to be helping the students."

Rebecca Mjelde,
Campus Supervisor

A Watchful Eye

1. Christina Patton quietly works on her color assignment in Art class. 2. Is Daniel Drab the next Kenney G.? Maybe, but for now, he just wows the Jazz Band class. 3. Paula Smally helps Mr. Similie clean and prep the music room. 4. Students from the Art class add some temporary beauty to the AHS campus with chalk drawings. 5. The annual psychology assignment of masks is messy, but the glue doesn't seem to bother Gordon Ko.

English

"We write too many essays and vocab tests are so easy that I don't even need to study for it."
Will Collins

"I love reading Shakespeare. . . it is so romantic . . ."
Kristie Li

Every year, English teachers stress the importance of the English language. We read books that teach us to be a better person, books like: Of Mice and Men, To Kill a Mocking Bird, Catcher in the Rye, and Julius Caesar. After analyzing these novels, we are taught to evaluate them through a series of essays. Through these and other written documents, grammer is taught and the common mistakes like subject/verb agreement are caught. The head of the English department, Ms. Davis-Martin, describes English teachers through "allusions to Tennyson's poem Ulysses: I want our students 'to follow knowledge like a sinking star;' we want to introduce them to 'cities of men/ And manners, climates, councils, governments;' we want to enable them to pursue 'the useful and the good.' We English teachers are like Ulysses' men: 'One equal temper of heroic hearts,/ Made weak by [reading essays], but strong in will/ To strive, to seek, to teach, and not to yield!'"

"History is fun, but the books are really heavy so we just leave them at home."
-Jennifer Frankel & Toshika Jones

"Current events can be viewed and assessed within the context of understanding the profoud changes throughout U.S. History."
-Mr. Nakamura

History is important to know and understand. It teaches students about the past and problems that the world once faced. Every student at Alameda High School has to complete three years of Social Sciences: one year of U.S. History, Modern World History, & Government. The classes available here at Alameda High are taught by an amazing faculty. The history department offers many special activities for the students to experience. Sophomore year, the students gather together in Kofman Auditorium to learn about the tragedies of WWII. They take a day out of regular class work to watch Schindler's List, and to hear the first hand experiences of people who survived the concentration camps. The Seniors, participate in Mock Congress. They play the roles of congress men and women, and write their own bills to be passed. After we surveyed the senior class, we found out that 77% of seniors said that Mock Congress helped them understand how our country works.

Adding It Up

Math

"Math is radical! I like it because I'm good at it; people call me Professor Plumb!"
-Austin Plumb

"Math is really fun and Mr. Quinn onez is a great teacher!"
-Kelly Callahan

Alameda High offers its students a wide variety of Math and Science courses. Two years of math are required to graduate, as well as two years of science. There are many elective classes available after the requirements have been completed, such as: Physiology, Astronomy, Statistics and Calculus. These electives can add to a better college career and offer a wider knowledge of interesting subjects. Alameda High has an exellent math and science department. It is run by a teriffic staff of teachers who try to make learning fun for their classes. A poll of 50 students suggests that the majority dislike math and science, but that it's helpful in the long-run.

Sophomore, Kevin Nious, concentrates hard on completing his classwork.

1. Russell Tan copies down directions from the board
2. Freshman, Graham Matthews ponders over his mathematical equation.
3. Lucero Rivas explains the homework to her fellow classmate.
4. Sophomores, Michael Gillman & Kyle Moore work on their Geometry problems together.

Mad scientist, Elisa Garcia goes a little crazy with her Environmental Science lab.

Junior, Justin Wright does some biological research by playing snake on his cell phone.

Senior buddies, Nathan Hoyt, Chris Cattin, and Eric Corpuz chuckle at a joke about molecules.

Senior, Anne Kreider measures the amout of periosity in fine sand In AP Enivornmental Science. Go Anne!

- Sra. Olsen

Alameda High students are offered the opportunity to explore the languages and roots of the French and Spanish cultures. These classes combine written and oral exercises to enhance student's knowledge of vocabulary and pronounciation. The teachers use a hands-on approach to demonstrate the lifestyles of these foreign countries. Students learn to cook traditional Spanish and French dishes, take part in celebrating their holidays, and exploring their music and fashion. Students who take these courses gain an abundant amount of knowledge while having a great time.

Physical Education

" P.E. is tiring sometimes, but it is a good way to get excercise."- Kiri Jones, freshman

"I like swimming because we don't have to run."- Andrea Lodigiani, freshman

Physical Education is an efficient way for students at Alameda High School to get excercise. It is a requirement to take physical education for two years in order to graduate from Alameda High. The class is filled with activities such as basketball, swimming, handball, softball, bowling and the ever so popular running exercises. The locker rooms can be a whole different aspect to the physical education class. The girls go into the locker room afterwards and usually put on make-up and spread the latest gossip amongst each other. The boys spend there locker room bonding time by twirling up shirts and whipping each other with them as well as shoving each other into lockers. Wait, how could we forget that they gossip too!? Physical education has it's ups and downs, but overall it is a good class and most students reflect fondly on their P.E. years here at Alameda High.

Jujitsu

Jujitsu is a Japanese martial art using holds, throws, and stunning blows to disable or subdue an opponent as described by the Webster dictionary. Who knew that Alameda High offered such a magnificent class? The students who take this class may describe it as an art that takes time and patience to master. This class is offered at here A.H.S. School to open up the variety of extracurricular classes students can take. This class is rumored to be entertaining as well as time-consuming if taken seriously. It is an outstanding way to meet people and to learn something new and helpful. So if you are looking for a new experience in your life, try out Jujitsu!

"Juijitsu is hard work, but anyone can learn it."- Daniel Munoz, sophomore

"Jujitsu is a lot of fun and it is not like your normal P.E. class"- Marylou Bagus, junior

" I've enjoyed acting ever since I was little." Kara Lujan
-Freshman

Here at Alameda High School, different electives are offered to give students a chance to show off their abilities and to do what they enjoy. Most students choose their electives according to what they're good at, what they're interested in and what catches their attention. The art of acting comes to life in Fred Chacon's drama class. Drama is taught in different levels, ranging from one to three. Many activities take place in drama such as, one act plays, short scenes, monologues and the spring musical. Another elective in the performing arts category is dance, taught by Susan Gill. This class combines African, Modern and Latin styles. These different styles are taught to beginning, intermediate and advanced dancers. These two classes prepare students for their future in college and careers with performing arts.

Art

" Art is an excellent way for students to express their creativity"- Korey Lee, senior

" Art is a good way for me to relax during a busy school day"- Maggie Mirult, junior

Art class can be an enjoyable way for students at Alameda High to express themselves. This class is a few steps up from when students were in Kindergarten, where it was a struggle just to color in the lines. It consists of different techniques of art ranging from sketches, watercolors, painting and other skills. It can be an excellent way for a student to gain recognition. Art is a skill that can come naturally or be acquired over time with practice.

Alameda High has a range of music classes that can be taken. Students can choose from Band, Jazz Band, Intermediate Band and Choir. Each class provides students with the opportunity to perfect their musical or vocal skills. Students also get the chance to show off their talents by performing in various concerts and events. Many students at Alameda High choose to take advantage of the fact that our school offers a great music program.

"Band is very enjoyable because music is good stuff! Music is food for the soul. "- Peter Kindrachuk, sophomore

Media Academy

"You get your own computer lab; it's pretty cool."
-Jon Sarro

"Media Academy is hella cool because it combines History and English together and you get the same teacher like Mr. Carman."
-Steve Kettlehut

The Media Academy is adding more students every year. It offers a unique experience where students can have a better chance of bonding with their classmates by sharing two periods a day with the same people. The Media Academy combines English and History together as one course. From Sophomore to Senior year, the students of the Media Academy get to know each other very well. They learn all the general studies offered for English and History, but they get to work on computers and attend special activities. This year, the Media Academy held a Flop-A-Thon, to help raise money for new equipment. It was a class competition held between the different grades, to see who could raise the most money. The Sophomores won the competition, but as a whole, the Media Academy ended up raising almost three thousand dollars to help add to their funds. The Media Academy is a well recomended class and it looks great on college applications.

A.V.I.D. stands for Advancement Via Individual Determination. AVID is a college prep class. AVID students are expected to have a G.P.A. of at least 2.94-3.0. 85% of AVID students expected to graduate from High School along to a 4-year college. Some days guest speakers come in to talk about colleges. AVID students are expected to take notes in all of their classes except for Physical Education. They also have tutorials every Tuesday and Wednesday. Tutorials are study groups of students helping each other with questions they have in their classes. AVID is fun, but always a challenging class.

"Being part of ASB means a lot to me. I get to make a difference to the school and show off my personality."

Matthew Lee

In our busy hive, there are bees that were born to be leaders. This group of hornets grow up to be in Leadership and ASB. Within leadership, the students split up into little groups, senior class, junior class, sophomore class, and freshman class. Our busy seniors plan all senior events: the senior banquet, senior ball, senior picnic, senior assembly, and graduation. While the junior class works on the junior prom and the sophmore class works on the winter ball. They all work together though and show their school spirit during homecoming! ASB (Associated Student Body), on the other hand, does all the planning and decorations for the special events that happen within this diverse school. Within their committees, they plan spirit days, dances, spirit rallies, make posters, and advertise all of their events. Leadership and ASB work hard to get the job done. They do all this to make every hornet feel comfortable and to make our nest a better environmentfor all.

The Inside Scoop

Journalism

Being a journalist means more than just writing. It's reporting the facts for the public. After four years on The Oak Leaf I have learned what it means to truly be a journalist.
-Soni Khatri

I've been in journalism for all four years and it has been a very positive experience for me.
-Robbie Hild

About every month, the students of Journalism prepare and put out a newspaper called The Oak Leaf. After brainstorming their ideas, the Journalism staff decide the topics for each newspaper. It is read by many people of our community including parents and teachers as well as the student body. They are the voice of the students at Alameda High. The newspaper covers many school-wide events from Homecoming week to the Exit exams. It also includes things outside of school such as movies and music. The newspaper is useful in that it always keeps us in touch with the "what's in" and the "what's out".

"I hate pictures. I hate computers. I definitely hate quotes. Censorship is not my fault. I should get community service for all the hours I put in after school. But the senior section is pretty isn't it?" Michaela Yee

Upon looking at the yearbook staff, one might see thirty students intent on putting only pictures of their friends in the soon to be developed yearbook, yet beneath the shiny surface of what appears to be an easy "A" course, there lies a group of motivated students filled with ambition, capacity, and energy. Yearbook requires long work hours, meticulous planning, attention to detail and a lot of creativity. Despite the time consuming and condensed schedule of the yearbook staff, we manage to design a page, set pictures and captions, interview certain subjects, develop a strong copy and a slew of other tasks within a matter of weeks. Although these tasks add a lot of stress to life at AHS, it is, nevertheless, an entertaining class.

Cross-Country (adj.) Moving or directed across open country.

Imagine running five miles a day five to six days a week, this sounds like torture to you and me but to the Alameda High Cross Country team its considered fun! Warm-ups , work-outs and cool downs are all in a day's work. Cross Country is a sport in which team members put everything they have into their runs, whether it's a two mile practice run or a three mile race. Captain Nic Bell explains this very well "Give it everything you got no matter what! I like to feel as if I have given it everything I can, and if I feel I didn't then it gives me more motivation to do better next time!" Over the two month season runners find out that cross country is a sport that requires determination and heart. But more than all that they need team spirit! They showed this by winning every meet this year. They shed blood, sweat and tears all in the name of fun!

Cheer•lead•ing (n.) a sport which combines sparkling smiles, dazzling stunts, and high quality teamwork.

Three words that decribe the 2001-2002 season of cheerleading are sweat, effort, and superior. In a season that lasts from August 'till Febuary these girls work it! In the beginning of the summer, practices begin putting the new squad together with incoming Freshman and familiar faces. These practices are not just about learning cheers, but to prepare for evaluations at the United Spirit Association. This painstaking process is eventually rewarded by one of the highest marks in the United Spirit Association, which is the "Superior Award." Varsity, Junior Varsity, and the Hornet mascot placed superior in each area from stunting to sidelines. This accomplishment has been rewarded by Alameda High School Cheerleaders for the past three years. This huge accomplishment was rewarded when the cheerleaders were invited to perform at the NFL Pro Bowl in February for the half time show. With sharp and in sync dances, Pom's dedication has shown through their smiles. Cheer's muscle-straining stunts have been a highlight at the Friday night games. Overall, the season has been filled with accomplishment and spirit.

Varsity Football (n.) a sport in which requires adrenaline, courage, and perserverance.

During the hot and long summer of the 2001-2002 football season, the varsity football team of Alameda High trained in the weight room four days a week and ran the Alameda beach. Some players also participated in a passing league, a flag football game against other teams to help teams improve their offensive and defensive plays. Not only did the summer practices make the team stronger and more confident,it also brought them closer together as a team. With this year being their second year with coach Kevin Hennessee they've accomplished many goals as far as unity and staying focused as a team. Their 2001-2002 football season started off very strong, and despite their downfalls, they still remained positive.

On the dirty football field, strong spirits fight for the possession of the ball. This is not a life and death situation but the fast moving game of Junior Varsity football. The 2001-2002 team came back together trying to obtain victory this year. "I'm very pleased with the number and commitment quality of the team this year," said coach Steve Yamasaki. His two best plays called, "Double 2 liz 50 half back hitch double pass" and "Pro-left 50 hidden Z," made them win some of their games. Although they lost a few games, they had the confidence and spirit that make up a good team. They had the strength to play with heart and soul."From that strength they will create empowerment. From their true game they will draw strength."GAME RECOGNIZE GAME!"

Freshman Football (n.)a sport which combines strong spirits, fast moving players and true commitment.

This season the Freshmen football team has been a huge success. With the help of their supporters and fans, they have led Alameda High to spectacular scores and wins. They have done their best in working together and have proved to be a team. In every game, they have won not by points but with heart and inspired teamwork. Putting all their heads and hearts together, they have shown what football is all about. It's a lot of weight on their shoulders to be depended upon by coaches, hornets, families, and friends, but they still manage to maintain a good team and strong school spirit.

This year's women's tennis team has been extraordinary. Practicing on a regular basis has helped them to win all the games and granted them the chance to compete in the North Coast Section. The team also created a sense of family, strength and unity. As Lisa Hathaway says "Tennis takes a lot of dedication and commitment." Not only has their dedication and perserverance allowed for them to grow both mentally and phsically.

This year's men's tennis team has been fantastic. There was more than 20 players on the team this year. All the players showed dedication and commitment by coming to every-day practices. The victories in majority of their games also proved their advance skills and abilities. The players and the coaches worked together as one to make this season the best. More than five players were champions at the ACCAL Tournament. This team will be successful in the years to come.

In a sport that has a very small team, unity is oh so very important. This season had a rocky start as the newer teammates attempted to find their niche. As the team began to lose their momentum they looked to each other for support and found it in their team captain Ronald Smith. As he pulled the team together they noticed a new team morale. To the untrained eye, badminton may appear as a casual sport, where one stands on the court and occasionally takes a strike at the bypassing birdie. In reality, badminton is an invigorating sport demanding strenuous physical play and strategic wit, requiring long hours of endurance training and increasing physical stamina. Badminton is a delicate, yet robust form of athleticism. During training sessions, not only do badminton players practice agility and rapid reflex, but they also learn to cooperate together as a team to work their full potential necessary to ascend to the top.

During the 2001-2002 season of golf, both new and continuing players sparkled in the field. Their endless efforts and remarkable teamwork brought them to a new level of success. Although their success has not been acknowledged to the fullest, they have proved the nay sayers wrong. Golf is a sport which requires a great deal of correctness of posture, concentration, precision, and accuracy--all of which the team has practiced on a regular basis everyday afterschool, and even in their unconscious state of mind. As the season progresses, each player keeps in mind that it is integrity and will power that wins the game. In the end, their competitiveness and determination will bring home a badge of glory.

Basketball (n); A sport containing two teams of five players that compete to make the most baskets using a strong defence and quick offence. The men's varsity basketball team has had a wonderful start. It seems that all the open gym time they recieve and the practices they attend for two and a half hours three times a week has paid off. Team captains: Brian Brooks, Alex Fleming, Joeseph Park, and Mark Gilman help keep the team together, on and off the court. During their 2001- 2002 basketball season they also attend basketball tournaments. So far this season they've attended three tournaments which have turned out to be very successful. With the help of the coaches, team captains and the team as one the , Alameda High varsity basketball team should end the year with a BANG!!!

Basketball(n)- A sport where two teams of five players compete to make the most baskets using tough deffense and quick offense. This year's freshmen team was determined to claim as many victories as they could. They worked hard during practices, played tough in games, and in the end, had a well-rounded season. Coach Nakamura did his best and taught these growing hornets to play their hardest on and off the court. These boys proved themselves true to the game on the court by being aggresive while on offense and defense. "Our team is comprised of responsible, intelligent and hard-working young men will make a positive impact upon the world we live in."-Coach Nakamura.

Basketball(n)-An aggresive game played with two teams of five in which a determined offense must use their quick reflexes in scoring, ball handling, and defense. The junior varsity team had a bit of a rough start this year, but all in all had a well earned season with 10-5. These boys played like a team and never quit. Jeremiah Escondo quotes, "I love this game because it brings the team closer together, and I've enjoyed every minute of it." This year's junior varsity team had a lot of fun but still played tough on defense and were very aggressive when taking it to the hole. The junior varsity team did good this season. GO HORNETS!!!

"Take me out to the ball game" cheers the crowd at a baseball game. Baseball is one of the oldest and most popular games of all time. There is evidence that people played games involving a stick and a ball since the early days of civilization. Baseball is a competitive game of accuracy, speed, and patience. Played with a hard ball and a bat, two teams of nine players compete for the most runs. The team that scores the highest by the end of the ninth inning wins the game. This year, the team went to Las Vegas for their tournament. They came back with more experience and determination to win over our local teams.

Baseball(n)- A game played with a bat and a ball by two opposing teams of nine players, each team playing alternately in the field and at bat. This year's junior varsity baseball team has accomplished a lot with the help of great coaching. The already very skilled players were able to improve their pitching, catching, batting, and throwing. Their teamwork is unexplainable; it seems as if the players have been playing together since they were young. Close Up, true to its name, provides a close up in depth view of government few high school students have yet to experience. It helps students to become active participants in government and shape our nation towards a better future. Students see history and world events come to life on the trips. It is a truly unique way to dive into what makes our country a stronghold on freedom for the world. Students return from the trip determined, educated and enthused about politics, foreign relations, and how they can make a better future for this glorious nation.

Conflict Mediation

The Conflict Mediation Program is designed to make Alameda High a more peaceful school by relieving tensions between people in disputes. Founded three years ago by counselor Elizabeth Lauer, Conflict Mediation is now run by students and has grown to encompass a wide range of members. The meditators are dedicated to the cause and respond to both student and teacher referred conflicts, no matter how minor or major the problem may be.

Italian Club

The International Club welcomes all students looking to broaden their views on the world. Our club is comprised of students from a variety of cultures, backgrounds, and ethnicities, but are united in their desire to give back to their community. Our members aid the community through a number of diverse programs: Mentoring, Community Service, and Tutoring. Through these programs International Club members not only better their community, but find new friends, responsibility, and maturity along the way.

EVELYN BINDNER

Evelyn is a Senior at AHS a[illegible] Fine Art. This is her first appearance at Altarena, following in her mother's footsteps (...some of you may remember Betty from QUILTERS last Spring and she will be directing MOUSETRAP here next season). However, Evelyn is no stranger to the stage having appeared in ANNIE GET YOUR GUN, AMAHL AND THE NIGHT VISITORS and THE FARNDALE...MURDER MYSTERY, (Jan's first directing venture), all at Masquers Playhouse and JOSEPH AND THE AMAZING TECHNICOLOR DREAMCOAT and WIND IN THE WILLOWS for Pittsburg Community Players. She is a math whiz, an Uno shark, a climber and a speedster on the slopes.

The sky is the limit some people say, and though there's no limits there's always a way

Life is too short from day to day, so reach the sky it's the only way. Limits are high and limits are low, but don't be who you are. The sky is the limit some people say and though there's no limits there's always a way

Go far away or stay where you are, there's always a way to say goodbye just say hello

Psalm 111: 10

Julian,
It seems like just yesterday that you were graduating from preschool and then the 8th grade; now here you are stepping into a new chapter of life. Remember, the hug and the kiss is always today.

We are very proud of you and love you very much,
Mom & Dad

My son, keep your father's commands and do not forsake your mother's teaching. Bind them upon your heart forever; fasten them around your neck. When you walk, they will guide you; when you sleep, they will watch over you; when you awake, they will speak to you. For these commands are a lamp, this teaching is a light, and the corrections of discipline are the way to life. Proverbs 6:20-23
